PART I. INTRODUCTION

This publication is free of charge; it is a handy, condensed reference that has the information about international mail that is most frequently needed.

Most international mail falls within two major categories: postal union mail and parcel post. These categories are covered in parts II and III. In addition, a third category, Express Mail International Service, is covered in part VII.

PART II. POSTAL UNION MAIL

A. CLASSIFICATIONS

Postal union mail is divided into two groups: LC mail and AO mail. LC mail (letters and cards) consists of letters, letter packages, aerogrammes, and post cards; AO mail (other articles) includes printed matter, matter for the blind, and small packets. Postal rates and certain general provisions relating to these classes of mail are as follows:

1. Letters and letter packages

a. Definition: Items of mail containing personal handwritten or typewritten communications having the character of current correspondence must be sent as letters or letter packages. Unless prohibited by the country of destination, dutiable merchandise may be transmitted in packages prepaid at the letter rate of postage. B. HOW TO PREPARE POSTAL UNION ARTICLES FOR MAILING

1. Address

Reserve at least the entire right half of the address side for the address of the addressee, the stamps, and the service labels and notations. Address legibly and completely, using Roman letters and Arabic numerals placed lengthwise on one side of the article only. Give house number and street or box number when mail is for towns or cities. Show names of post office and country of destination in capital letters, and include postal code if known. Foreign postal codes are to precede the name of the country of destination. The country name should not be abbreviated and must be the last item in the address. An address in a foreign language is permissible provided the names of the post office, province, and country are in English, or, if the English form is not known, are in Roman characters. The sender's name and address should be shown in the upper left corner of the address side.

2. Dimensions

a. For articles in envelopes or package form (but not roll shaped)—

Maximum: length—24 inches
Maximum: 36 inches in combined length, width and thickness (measure length plus once the width and once the thickness.)
Minimum: One surface must measure at least 5½ x 3½ inches

b. For roll shaped articles—

Maximum: length—36 inches
length plus twice the diameter—42 inches
Minimum: length—4 inches
length plus twice the diameter—6¼ inches

c. Letters and regular printed matter—A surcharge of 10 cents per item will be added to the applicable postage and fees on all air and surface letters weighing one ounce or less and regular printed matter items weighing one ounce or less that exceed any of the following size limits:

(a) Maximum height: 6⅛ inches
(b) Maximum length: 11½ inches
(c) Maximum thickness: ¼ of an inch

d. For Post Cards—

Maximum: 6 x 4¼ inches
Minimum: 5½ x 3½ inches

3. Sealing

Registered letters and registered letter packages must be sealed. Padded envelopes are acceptable in the outgoing and incoming international registered mails. Ordinary letters and small packets may be sealed; printed matter may be sealed if postage is paid by permit imprint, postage meter stamps, precanceled stamps, or second-class indicias. Ordinary printed matter mailed in padded envelopes closed by staples is acceptable at the sender's risk. Matter for the blind must be left unsealed.

4. Endorsements

Mailers must endorse the envelopes or wrappers of postal union articles other than letters to show the classification under which they are mailed. Endorse the envelopes or wrappers "Printed Matter" or "Printed Matter— Catalogs" when mailing prints at regular printed matter rates, and "Printed Matter—Books" or Printed Matter—Sheet Music" when mailing at special rates prescribed for that category of prints. The word "Letter (Lettre)" should be added on the address side of letters or letter packages which, because of their size or manner of preparation, may be mistaken for matter of another classification. When mailing small packets, endorse the envelopes or wrappers "Small Packets" or its equivalent in a language known in the country of destination e.g., "Petit Paquet" (French), "Packchen" (German) or "Pequeno Paquet" (Spanish). In addition, airmail articles should be plainly endorsed "Par Avion" or have a "Par Avion" label affixed; and articles intended for special delivery must either have a red international "Exprès" label affixed, or be marked boldly in red "Exprès (Special Delivery)."

5. Customs forms

Small packets, letters and letter packages containing dutiable merchandise, and dutiable printed matter must have the green customs label, Form 2976, affixed. If the sender prefers, or if the contents exceed $120 in value, Form 2976—A, Customs Declaration, must be completed and enclosed and only the upper portion of the green label affixed to the cover of the package. The forms are furnished free at post offices.

6. Prepayment

To avoid delay and inconvenience, mailers should make sure all articles are correctly prepaid, according to weight, and at the appropriate rate of postage. If an article is returned for additional postage, the proper amount should be affixed and the article returned to the mail immediately. Cross out the "Returned for postage" endorsement. Special delivery stamps are good only for payment of the special delivery fee. Airmail stamps may be used only on articles intended for transmission by air. The embossed or imprinted postage on Government stamped envelopes, postal cards, or aerogrammes is not valid if cut out and pasted on other mail.

7. Prohibited articles

Articles of a dangerous or objectionable nature are generally prohibited in the international mail. All items prohibited in the domestic mails are prohibited in both the international postal union and parcel post mails.

8. Prepayment of replies from other countries.

a. A mailer who wishes to prepay a reply by letter from another country may do so by sending his correspondent one or more international reply coupons, which may be purchased at United States post offices. One coupon should be accepted in any country in exchange for postage of that country sufficient to prepay an unregistered surface letter of the first unit of weight (usually 20 grams) to the United States. A sufficient number of the coupons should be accepted for the prepayment of a reply by airmail.

b. Business reply mail and reply-paid cards, applicable in the U.S. domestic service, are not accepted in international mail.

9. Undeliverable articles

Postal union mail is generally returned to sender if delivery cannot be made. However, post cards which do not bear the return address of the sender are not returned. Undeliverable unregistered printed matter articles, other than books, are not returned unless they bear the sender's request for return.

D. PROHIBITED ARTICLES

In general, articles which may cause injury to postal employees, or may damage postal equipment or the mail and articles excluded from domestic mail of the United States are prohibited; also communications having the character of current correspondence, matches, and most live or dead creatures. Restrictions apply to firearms capable of being concealed on the person, to flammable liquids and radioactive materials. Also, each country prohibits or restricts the importation of various articles in addition to those generally prohibited. Such information which has been furnished regarding these special "country" prohibitions or restrictions appears in the Individual Country Listings of the International Mail Manual. Inquire at the post office, as failure to investigate these limitations before mailing may result in seizure of packages at the country of address.

E. PACKING

Parcels for transmission overseas should be more carefully packed than those intended for delivery within the United States. Containers should be used which will be strong enough to protect the contents from the weight of other mail, from pressure and friction, climatic changes and the repeated handlings to which parcels must unavoidably be subjected. When using fiberboard or double-faced corrugated boxes, use only good-quality material. Containers of 275-pound test, with contents solidly packed, are preferred. Use cushioning material where needed. When sending liquids or easily liquifiable substances, place sufficient absorbent material between the inner and outer containers to absorb all the liquid contents in case of breakage.

F. SEALING

Insured parcels must be sealed. To some countries the sealing of uninsured parcels is optional, and to others compulsory. Consult post office.

G. CUSTOMS DECLARATIONS AND OTHER FORMS

At least one customs declaration, either a Form 2966-A or a Form 2966-B, is required for parcel post items (surface or air) mailed to another country. See Parcel Post Forms List, part VI page 41. The forms may be obtained at post offices.

H. SPECIAL SERVICES AVAILABLE FOR PARCEL POST

1. Insurance

The figure in the column represents the maximum amount of indemnity payable to the country concerned. Consult post office for fees. [1] Restrictions apply. Consult post office.

[2] To facilitate distribution and delivery, incl[illegible] "Union of Soviet Socialist Republics" or "U.S.S.R." in the address.

* Many items are either prohibited or restricted entry into destination countries. Senders should determine before mailing whether the intended mailing will be prohibited or restricted entry into the destination country. Failure to make this determination can result in the parcels being seized or returned to the mailer with postage due. The postage due represents the costs incurred in returning the parcel.

PART VI. PARCEL POST FORMS LIST

All parcel post items mailed to other countries must bear a customs declaration completed by the sender. For this purpose two types of customs declarations are used: Form 2966-A, Parcel Post Customs Declaration, (single declaration) and Form 2966-B, Parcel Post Customs Declaration and Dispatch Note, (three-part carbonless form set). The choice of customs document is governed by the regulations of the country of destination.

PART VII. EXPRESS MAIL INTERNATIONAL SERVICE

Express Mail International Service offers reliable high speed delivery to certain foreign destinations. The Custom Designed Service provides delivery on a fixed schedule—tailored to the need of the customer—from any location in the United States of America. The On-Demand Service provides delivery when shipments cannot be made on a regular basis. It is available at Express Mail acceptance postal facilities. Express Mail International Service also provides document reconstruction insurance at no additional charge, centralized payments for volume mailers, and a reciprocal Express Mail International Service. Contact your post office for information concerning the services available, allowable contents, and the various country weight limits.

PART VIII. INTERNATIONAL POSTAL MONEY ORDERS

This service is available to certain countries. Consult post office.

PART IX. INTERNATIONAL SURFACE AIR LIFT

It's faster than international surface mail. It costs less than air freight. It's called International Surface Air Lift. If you're a publisher with circulation in foreign countries, or if you send other printed matter overseas, consider the benefits of this service.

The service is available for any second-class publication; also for books, advertising, and other printed matter.

Just give us four days notice before your shipment is ready. Our traffic control office will verify space availability and confirm the date and time the shipment must reach the air cargo terminal. Then you simply take the shipment to the airline terminal where a Postal Service clerk coordinates acceptance procedures with the airline.

On arrival in the destination city the foreign postal administration takes charge of the shipment for delivery anywhere in that country.

For more information, contact your local postmaster.

PART X. INTELPOST® SERVICE

INTELPOST®, or International Electronic Post, is fast, economical, and secure. INTELPOST service offers same or next day delivery of facsimile documents from post offices in major U.S. cities to addresses in Canada, Europe, South America, and the Near and Far East.

Letters, documents, bills of lading, blueprints—any item that can be photocopied—can be sent in minutes.

INTELPOST mail is transmitted through state-of-the-art equipment which produces high quality black and white photocopies that can be picked up by your addressee overseas within an hour, delivered by regular mail next day, or by special delivery the same day, depending of course, upon the time differences around the world. The low per page charge makes INTELPOST service a bargain in comparison to telex and courier methods. Also, because your message is sent electronically and handled on both shores by specially trained postal employees, its confidentiality is protected.

For more information, contact your local postmaster.
